Subject: Next Week Anaconda Roundtable - Flooding contingencies

For those of you coming from out of town for next week's roundtable, we are getting more and more indications from National Weather Service and others that conditions for flooding on the Walker River are high starting on Tuesday.

We are communicating with everyone and we will be looking at alternate travel routes or plans for potentially cancelling.

I know it is difficult for those of you with long distance travel but we don't have enough information yet to make a decision. We will be working on that today and will stay in touch as we receive new information.

Please reach out to me or Jeff if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Greg
